

Abstract

The operation microscope with an illuminating device, which is arranged behind the front lens (1) and illuminates the object plane (2) with a light patch (16), and in whose beam path (9) a diaphragm (6, 7) is arranged which partially covers said beam path, is characterized in that the light patch (16) can be moved with a translatory movement component in the object plane (2).